ASB, mental health and disability

In-house training

Issues surrounding disability and mental health can turn even the most straightforward-looking case into complex litigation. This course will give you the skills and confidence to tackle ASB when the victim, perpetrator, or both are vulnerable.

SESSIONS WILL COVER:

- The key legislation – what you need to know
- Relevant case law
- Understanding the case-management process
- Decision-making
- Helping witnesses to engage
- Judicial review and public law challenges
- Impact of the Equalities Act
- Case studies.

WHAT WILL DELEGATES LEARN?

- Types of physical disability and mental health
- Capacity
- The role of litigation friends and the Official Solicitor
- Discrimination
- Dealing with judicial review
- Practical remedies using real-life scenarios
- Learning from colleagues – practical sessions.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

- Heads of service
- Neighbourhood managers
- Team leaders
- Frontline housing officers
- ASB officers
- Children's and adult services staff.

OUR TRAINERS :

Matthew Wilson is a solicitor at Whiteheads and has significant experience of dealing with all types of anti-social behaviour and tenancy management work. In addition to his ASB litigation practice, Matthew also has expertise in disrepair and civil prosecutions.

Amanda Yelland is an experienced housing practitioner and law graduate with a range of expertise across the spectrum of housing provision. Currently she specialises in providing housing law training on a wide range of topics including homelessness, tenancy management, disrepair and anti-social behaviour.

HQN has a track record of helping organisations achieve real and lasting performance improvements. If you are interested in accessing this superb training package please contact Steve Palmer, Training and Development Services Manager, to discuss your specific needs on 07545 208545 or by emailing training@hqnetwork.co.uk

WHITEHEADS

hqn training